

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An endodontic instrument set of progressively smaller sizes adapted for use in performing root canal therapy and a method of using the instrument set are provided. Each of the instruments have an elongated shaft comprising a proximal end and a distal end and a short enlarged continuously tapered working length formed on the shaft adjacent to the distal end. The short enlarged continuously tapered working length has at least one continuous cutting edge thereon.